III. Discussion Items

- a. Active Transportation Education and Bike Parking Plan — Nick Mason from BikeMN attended to discuss the draft Edina Active Transportation Education and Bike Parking Plan developed by BikeMN, under contract with Bloomington Public Health. The plan grew out of a Bikeable Community Workshop held in Edina in October 2013. The plan identifies goals related to Active Routes to School education, increasing the number of certified local bicycle safety instructors, launching a public education campaign to promote active transportation, outreach events, and bike parking. Bike Edina is identified as the lead on goals related to increasing the number of certified local bicycle safety instructors and organizing group rides, and co-lead on the goal of modifying the biking and parking on sidewalks ordinance. The group discussed the timelines related to these goals and made some adjustments. The group also discussed whether the goals could be incorporated into current work plans. Consensus was that they could be incorporated. Bike Edina will work with BikeMN to schedule a Traffic Skills 101 class in the spring. This class will prepare participants to take the League-certified bicycle instructor class scheduled in Minneapolis in May or October.

- b. Bicycle Friendly Community Application — Jennifer has been working on completing the League of American Bicyclists' Bicycle Friendly Community application, with the help of Mark Nolan and Nick Mason. Nick shared his impressions of the draft application. Members provided additional feedback. The application is due by February 19, 2014.
