VISION EDINA UPDATE – FUTURE IQ PARTNERS

David Beurle, future iQ Partners, updated the Council on the Vision Edina process to date. Mr. Beurle presented the initial data showing the various spread on the continuum of how citizens would like to see the Edina of the future. Mr. Beurle noted the data gathered in response to the surveys would be plotted in a data base that allows it to be viewed in many formats. He noted the data will be public, searchable, and show points of consensus and areas of divergence.

Mr. Beurle said that to date approximately 466 surveys had been received. Assistant Manager Kurt reviewed the schedule followed to date and outlined the remaining opportunities for citizens to participate in the surveys. The council and staff discussed the preliminary results, and how to gather more input from the citizens. Ms. Kurt explained that future iQ Partners would prepare a draft Vision Edina report and present it at a January 2015 work session. This could serve as a starting point for the development of a VISION document. There would be ample opportunity for Boards and Commissions and all of Edina's citizens to make comments and review the data.

There being no further business, Mayor Hovland adjourned the meeting at 6:40 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
